Dear Year 6 Robins,

As you are very aware, next week is SATS week: the tests you have worked so hard towards since you started your learning journey at Newchurch. Some of you probably have mixed feelings regarding the tests but you are ready for them.

Tests and SATs results do not define the person you are – you are much more than that! SATs do not measure your creativity, your compassion, your bravery or resilience – all things you have demonstrated over the last few years. During your time at Newchurch, you have shown yourselves to be an incredible class. Aristotle, a Greek philosopher, said, 'Educating the mind without educating the heart is no education at all'. You have embodied the Newchurch core values in everything you have done, and never more so than since the school had to 'close' in March 2020 and the subsequent changes to methods of learning – your hearts are educated and you demonstrate this in all you do at home, at school and in the community.

You are our heroes. You truly are loved Year Six and we know that you will do your very best next week. If you are struggling in any way, talk to us and we can help. We are so very proud of you and promise a little treat on Friday when it is all over.

Have a great weekend and see you on Monday.

Take care,

Your Newchurch Family
